ELECTION CENTER

VOTER ACCESSIBILITY SEMINAR MIAMI, FLORIDA MARCH 9, 2012

The Election Center has scheduled a series of four training sessions on the issue of access to voting. This training is being conducted at hub airports around the country with financial support from a grant to Clemson University from the United States Election Assistance Commission. Clemson has formed a Research Alliance for Accessible Voting (RAAV) whose purpose is to “advance the state of elections and voting through research, development, evaluation, dissemination, and implementation of concepts and technologies that increase access to participation in democracy.” The RAAV partners will continue development of promising technologies and approaches that address a variety of disabilities defined by the Americans with Disabilities ACT (ADA) as well as difficulties due to aging, lack of fluent English and educational disparities. For more information regarding RAAV, please visit www.accessiblevoting.org.

This training will be conducted by either Dr. Robert Montjoy from the University of New Orleans or Dr. Kathleen Hale from Auburn University. Each session will have the same content, which is as follows:

REGISTRATION
The Election Center
VOTER ACCESSIBILITY WORKSHOP

Miami, Florida
March 9, 2012

(Please use a separate form for each person registering)

- The nature and range of disabilities
- How disabilities can affect access to the electoral process
- Legal Requirements for election officials
- Dealing with accessibility issues
- Best practices: lessons from the field

Sessions will begin at 9am and will conclude at 4:30. Many of you will be able to drive or fly into the hub airports without the need for overnight accommodations. We have, however, arranged for a number of sleeping rooms for those of you who need to stay, either the night before the training, or the night of the training, or both. Details of the hotel accommodations are included in this flyer. Each hotel where the training will occur is on hotel property or has a complimentary airport shuttle.

In order to reach as many election jurisdictions as possible, we are conducting these sessions on a “no frills” basis. Morning and afternoon beverages will be provided, but you will be on your own for other meals. If you register for these sessions, the per person registration fee is only $149.00. You do not have to be a member of The Election Center to take advantage of this low fee.

If you need additional information, please contact Pat Hawkins at 916 686 7928.
