

Supervisor Brian Corley was appointed Pasco County Supervisor of Elections in 2007; and elected in 2008 & 2012.

He currently is the President for the Florida State Association of Supervisors of Elections (FSASE) and has previously served as chairman of the FSASE Legislative Committee lobbying on behalf of Elections' Officials on voting/elections issues in Florida. He has testified numerous times before Florida Legislative Committees and is frequently requested to speak to groups within Pasco County on the importance of voting.

He attained a BA degree in Political Science & an MPA in Public Administration from the University of South Florida and is adjunct professor at Barry University. He is a member of the American Society for Public Administration (ASPA) and the Pi Alpha Alpha (National Honor Society for Public Affairs and Administration). He resides in New Port Richey & is married with two children. He is involved in many community endeavors throughout Pasco County.