

Eric Fey

Eric Fey departed for work on the morning of Jan. 20, 2015 as a St. Louis County Council legislative aide. By the time he returned home that evening, Fey had a heftier title - Director of the St. Louis County Board of Elections.

His work in elections began when Fey, a Webster University undergraduate, signed on as a poll worker to pick up extra spending money.

After earning a graduate degree from the University of Missouri-St. Louis, Fey spent three years as an elections board employee.

Along with a bachelor's degree from Webster University in political science, Fey holds a master's degree in public administration from the University of Missouri-St. Louis with a specialty in election management and has served as a foreign election observer in a range of countries, from the now Russian-occupied territory in Ukraine to Belarus to Kazakhstan to Macedonia.