

Peter Schalestock

Peter Schalestock is Deputy General Counsel of the Committee on House Administration of the U.S. House of Representatives, where he has worked since 2008. He previously worked on election law and election administration matters for state and national political party committees and as deputy counsel to a presidential campaign. He also spent five years as a private practice attorney, and served as general counsel of the U.S. Small Business Administration. He is the author of "Monitoring of Election Processes By Private Actors," published in the Winter 2008 William Mitchell Law Review, and has worked on four statewide recounts, including full hand recounts in Washington State and Vermont. Peter is a graduate of the University of Washington and Seattle University School of Law.
